to allow the Sixth Committee to deal directly with such requests.

Item entitled "Follow-up to the recommendations on administrative management and internal oversight of the Independent Inquiry Committee into the United Nations Oil-for-Food Programme"

17. The Chairman said that Iraq and Costa Rica had requested the inclusion of an item entitled "Follow-up to the recommendations on administrative management and internal oversight of the Independent Inquiry Committee into the United Nations Oil-for-Food Programme" in the agenda for the sixty-first session. The representative of Costa Rica had asked to participate in the discussion of the item in accordance with rule 43 of the rules of procedure.

18. At the invitation of the Chairman, Ms. Chassoul (Costa Rica) took a place at the Committee table.

19. Mr. Al Bayati (Iraq) drew attention to the fact that the question had been included in the agenda for the sixtieth session as item 160.

20. Ms. Chassoul (Costa Rica) said that her delegation had been dismayed to learn, after the decision to defer consideration of the evaluation of the Independent Inquiry Committee into the Oil-for-Food Programme from the sixtieth to the sixty-first session, that the item had been dropped from the draft agenda. She requested its reinstatement as Member States needed to be informed of the findings of the Independent Inquiry Committee.

23. The Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly the inclusion in the agenda of the items listed under heading I, taking into account the decisions taken regarding items 114, 149, 151 to 158 and the item entitled "Follow-up to the recommendations on administrative management and internal oversight of the Independent Inquiry Committee into the United Nations Oil-for-Food Programme".

V. Allocation of items

Paragraphs 53-55

24. The Committee took note of the information contained in paragraphs 53 to 55.

Paragraph 56

25. The Chairman said that paragraph 56 dealt with items of the draft agenda that had not been considered previously by the General Assembly. If the members of the Committee agreed, she would request the Committee to make a recommendation on the allocation of those items, recommended for inclusion in the agenda for the sixty-first session.

26. It was so decided.

Paragraph 57

27. The Chairman recalled that, in accordance with paragraph 2 of resolution 54/195, any request by an organization for the granting of observer status in the General Assembly would be considered in plenary meeting after consideration of the issue by the Sixth Committee. The Committee would therefore proceed accordingly when it considered the allocation of 158, concerning observer status.

Item 114. Report of the Peacebuilding Commission

28. The Chairman said that no specific mention had been made of the allocation of the item.

29. Mr. Majoor (Netherlands), supported by Mr. Labbé (Chile) and Mr. Llewellyn (United Kingdom), said that item 114 should be considered directly in plenary meeting since the work of the Peacebuilding Commission was connected to that of the main bodies of the Organization.

30. The Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly that item 114 should be considered directly in plenary meeting.

Item 149. Report of the Human Rights Council

31. The Chairman said that she had received a letter from the President of the Human Rights Council suggesting that the report of the Council should be considered directly in plenary meeting.

32. Mr. Jenie (Indonesia) said that the Human Rights Council, mandated by General Assembly resolution 60/251 to make recommendations to the General Assembly for the further development of international law in the field of human rights, was currently undertaking the groundwork to become fully functional. In the view of his delegation, it should report to the General Assembly through the Third Committee, so that its work could receive full consideration. In 2006, the Council was recommending two important draft human rights instruments for adoption by the General Assembly: the United Nations draft declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, and the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance. Those instruments would assume greater legitimacy if the whole membership were given sufficient time to discuss them, which could be achieved only if they were submitted first to the Third Committee.

33. Mr. Labbé (Chile) said that his delegation had taken note of the letter from the President of the Human Rights Council. He recalled that, during the negotiations leading to the establishment of the Human Rights Council, there had been two schools of thought with regard to its status. Most States, including Chile, considered the Council to be a major body in its own right within the United Nations system, while others saw it as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly. The provisional solution to that divergence of opinion had been that the Council's work and functioning would be reviewed and its final status decided five years after its establishment. Since the Council was for the time being a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly, it might appear logical for it to report to the General Assembly through the Third Committee. However, analysis of and a conceptual discussion on the draft human rights instruments submitted to the Assembly at its sixty-first session had already taken place in the Commission on Human Rights, so that all that remained was a political decision by the General Assembly. In view of the importance of the Council within the United Nations system, its report should be discussed in plenary meeting and not in the Third Committee.

34. Ms. Zhang Dan (China) said that her delegation agreed with the proposal made by the representative of Indonesia. Pursuant to rule 98 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, human rights-related issues had always been considered by the Third Committee, which had the necessary expertise. Moreover, under rule 97, all items relating to the same category of subjects should be referred to the committee dealing with that category. There was, therefore, no reason why the Human Rights Council report should not be considered by the Third Committee.

35. Mr. Majoer (Netherlands) said that pursuant to paragraph 5 (j) of resolution 60/251, the Council was required to submit an annual report to the General Assembly. In his delegation's view, since the Council was a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly, it would be logical, as well as more flexible, for its report to be considered directly in the plenary Assembly. Not only would that avoid placing an unnecessary burden on the Third Committee, whose agenda was already full, but it would also ensure that the Council's annual report covered all its sessions.

36. Mr. Adekanye (Nigeria), mindful of the limited membership of the Human Rights Council, supported the proposal made by the representative of Indonesia and agreed with the views expressed by the representative of China. Submitting the Human Rights Council report to the Third Committee would allow Member States to address fully the important issues that were the subject of the Council's recommendations, thereby giving the Council the legitimacy and credibility it deserved. It was, in any case, a temporary measure, pending a decision on the Council's final status in five years' time.

37. Mr. Al Bayati (Iraq) said that his delegation had taken note of the letter from the President of the Human Rights Council. He agreed with the representative of China, however, that rule 97 of the rules of procedure applied, and he therefore supported the proposal of the representative of Indonesia.

38. Mr. Nikiforov (Russian Federation) said that he was firmly convinced that, pursuant to rule 97 of the rules of procedure, for reasons of substance and organization, the Human Rights Council report should be submitted to the Third Committee.

39. Ms. Intelmann (Estonia), Ms. Juul (Norway) and Ms. Dinić (Croatia) supported the proposal for the report of the Human Rights Council to be considered directly in plenary meeting.

40. Ms. Blum (Colombia) and Ms. Nyamudeza (Zimbabwe) endorsed the remarks made by the representative of Indonesia and supported his proposal.

41. Mr. Wenaweser (Liechtenstein), reiterating his delegation's commitment to the Human Rights Council and recalling the important relationship between the Council and the General Assembly, said that paragraph 5 (j) of General Assembly resolution 60/251 was not the only provision governing that relationship. Pursuant to the same resolution, the Council was to make recommendations to the General Assembly for the further development of international law, and not necessarily in its annual report. His delegation believed that those recommendations should be submitted to the Third Committee, whereas the annual report should be considered directly in plenary meeting. If rule 97 of the rules of procedure were invariably interpreted in the way suggested by some speakers, virtually nothing would be referred directly to the plenary Assembly, which was not, of course, the case. The best solution, therefore, would be to refer the Council's annual report directly to the plenary Assembly while entrusting the Third Committee with consideration of the Council's recommendations.

42. Mr. Tidjani (Cameroon) said that his delegation took note of the letter from the President of the Human Rights Council. He drew attention to rule 65 as well as to rule 97 of the rules of procedure. Since human rights were a basic pillar of the Organization, all related issues required a full analysis and, therefore, ought to be considered by the Third Committee, as proposed by the representative of Indonesia.

43. Mr. Sow (Guinea) said that his delegation strongly supported the proposal of the representative of Indonesia. The Third Committee was responsible for examining all human rights issues, including the work of the Human Rights Council. It was important for the considerable experience of small countries, such as his own, to be taken into account, and that would be possible only if the report were submitted to the Third Committee.

44. Mr. Llewellyn (United Kingdom) said that his delegation firmly supported the proposal of the President of the Human Rights Council. In view of the importance of the Human Rights Council as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly, its annual report should be considered directly in plenary meeting.

45. Mr. Simancas Gutiérrez (Mexico), voicing his agreement with the remarks made by the representative of Liechtenstein, said that since the Council was a new body an examination of the precedents set by other organs, such as the Economic and Social Council, would be useful. In any event, the Committee had just decided that the annual report of the Peacebuilding Commission would be referred directly to the plenary Assembly, while a number of related issues had already been allocated to subsidiary committees. Accordingly, whereas the report of the Human Rights Council might be submitted directly to the plenary Assembly, its recommendations and all other related matters could be examined by the relevant committee, namely the Third Committee.

46. Mr. Lacroix (France) said that, in common with the other member States of the European Union represented in the General Committee, his delegation was in favour of the proposal made by the President of the Human Rights Council. Nevertheless, he had taken note of the arguments in favour of submitting the report of the Human Rights Council, the first of its kind, to the Third Committee. The Committee needed to decide quickly, yet the compromise proposal made by the representative of Liechtenstein and endorsed by the representative of Mexico, offering a possible solution to the problem, would require further examination. As had been suggested by the representative of Nigeria, whichever decision the General Committee took at the sixty-first session should be regarded as provisional and not creating a precedent for later sessions.

47. Mr. Mubarak (Libyan Arab Jamahiriya) said that, in consonance with the General Assembly's rules and procedure, his delegation supported the proposal made by the representative of Indonesia.

48. The Chairman said that she took it that the Committee wished to defer a decision on the matter to a later date.

49. It was so decided.

50. The Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly that item 152 should be allocated to the Sixth Committee.

53. The Chairman said that no specific mention had been made of the allocation of the item.

54. Ms. Pierce (United Kingdom) proposed that the report on the Peacebuilding Fund should be considered directly in plenary meeting along with the report on the Peacebuilding Commission, given the work that the Fund did in supporting development and post-conflict resolution.

55. The Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly that item 157 should be considered directly in plenary meeting.

59. The Committee took note of paragraph 58 and decided to recommend that the General Assembly, when considering item 43 in its entirety in plenary meeting, should take note of the clarification that, in implementing resolution 58/316, the relevant parts of chapter I of the report of the Economic and Social Council would be considered by the Main Committees concerned, under items already allocated to them, for final action by the Assembly.
